At the same time, report says that the Taku forts have been strengthened by having two thousand bales of cotton, covered with mud, placed round their base, that torpedoss have been placed in the mouth of the river, and that posts have been driven in, to which chains may be attached, and that a chain will be drawn across. as suon as La has left for Obefco. Altogother the picture painted of affairs does not look very promising for the safety of the foreign community at Tientsia in the event of some familical misoreant spreading a false report that the Vicenov had been made a prisoner by the British. Nor is this all. An unpleasant statement les been made by the Chinese in Shanghai. The Daily News asserts that the natives there say that measures have been concerted between the Taotai and the literati and gentry to incite the people to destroy the Shanghai and Woosung railway. and that it will be done within two months, The Taotai was, bowever, afraid to act on his own responsibility, and wont to Nanking to take the Vicenov's instructions. The latter would never, we should imagine, countenance such an act, and it is scarcely likely that the more responsible officials would venture upon it. At the same time the literati and lower officials would not hesitate, judging to Mesers. Douglas Lapraik & Co.'s, but finding beggars myself. Religious persecution in Szechuen and Anhwei rares with a violence hitherto unprecedented. The atrocties committed in Ning-knob bave already been made public, but they are equalled by those which have occurred in huen correspondent of our Shanghai con-

the neighbourhood of Chung-king. A. Szectemporary says that "infamous libels against Europeans inundate the province, without the mandarins, either great or small, taking any notice. The consequence is that sinister rumours are intensely prevalent; and, orders be not quickly sent from Peking recalling the magistrates to their duty, the result will be a general massacre of missionaries and Christians. Already at least six hundred houses have been burnt or pillaged, and about fifty converts killed without the mandarins having yet done anything Mesers. Rull & Holtz and Kelly to punish the assassins or stay the disorders." Truly the present condition affairs is in the highest-degree unsatisfactory, and it cannot long continue: Impunity only serves to urge on the Chinese mob to greater violence and more daring manifestations of hostility. What is however, most ominous is the fact that the Authorities do nothing to suppress these excite further demonstrations against

The priest who was killed, utter indifference to the outrages and wholesale murders recently perpetrated by the mob, and in some cases, openly countenanced by officials, with an carnest desire for the mail tenance of pacific relations with foreign nations. Such a state of things cannot be has been published in Szechnen, announcing the allowed to go on long. The mandarins know this well enough. Their object would seem, therefore, to widen the breach and hurry on a crisis. The wisdom of this course is very doubtful. The persecution of Christians in Szechuen and Anhwei will be the means of provoking the interference of France, and in making a fresh opponent they have only desert replied that it did not feel competent to added to their difficulties. It must be confessed that the situation is not a hopeful one. The vast majority of the official class in China are eager for war, and willing, we believe, to do what they can to provoke a rupture. Whether or not the peace party are potential enough to tide over present difficulties, and

Count | On SHANGHAL .-Valerian Krasinski relates that in 1836 two malefactura were contended to death at Cettique. and the manner in which the sentence was carried into effect is truly Montenegrin. Several hundred persons belonging to different | Hongkong and Shanghai Bunk Sharee-10 per districts were assembled, and they all fired their rifles together on the calprits, in order [] that their relations might not say, "Such a one has killed our kinsman." - Although the Montenegrins are justly unlehrated as marks. fired from a short distance, only one of the enlprits was killed and the other wounded; the sentence, however, being considered executed the latter was oured of his wounds and set free. Montenegro formed part of the avonian China Fire Insurance Company's Shares-$150 Empire of Servia overthrown by the furks in 1889, when the Servian Monarch Lascarus Hongkong and Whampon Dock Company's perished at the battle of Kusaowa. This protection was only nominal; but it continued | Same on August 15th, As Reported by to be asknowledged, and the Emperors have kept up the habit of sending presents of money, but especially of religious books and episoopal vestments. The Montenegrin method of making war is very primitive. Green Peas -400 piculs, at $2.60, by Kwong When at the attack of Clobuck, a small Mow Tai to traveiling trader. detachment of Russian troops was obliged to retreat, an officer of stous make, and no longer young, fell on ground from exhaustion. A Montenegria, persoiving it, ran immediately to him, and, having drawn his yatagan, said, "You are very brave, and must wish that I should out off your head. Say a prayer, and make a sign of the Cross." The officer, horrified at the proposition, made an effort to rise, and rejoined his comrades with the assistance of the friendly Montenegrin. They consider all those who have been taken by the enemy as killed. They curry out of the battle their wounded committee on their shoulders. Arms, a small loaf of brend, a cheese, some garlie, a little brandy, an old garment, and two pair of sandals made of raw hide, form all the equipage of the Montanegrins. On their merch they do not seek any shelter from rain or cold. In rainy weather the Montanegrin wraps around his head the strooka (a shawl of course cloth). Lies down on the ground, and, putting his rifle under him, sleeps very comfortably. Three or four hours of repose are quite sufficient for his rest, and the remainder of his time is occupied in constant exertion. It is impossible to retain them in the reserve. and it seems that they cannot calmly bear the view of the enemy. The inclide of the Montenegrins are confined to being skilful marksmen. A stone, a hole, a tree, offer them a cover from the enemy. Firing usually in a prostrate position on the ground, they are not easily hit, whilst their rapid and sure shote carry destruction into the closed ranks of a regular srmy. They have besides a well-practised eye for judging of distance, and throughly understand how to take advantage of the ground. Of course it will always be difficult to employ such warriors against regular troops. The Russian Admiral Bromiewski, who visited Montenegro in 1836, found bimself almost worshipped, together with a common sailor whom he took with him, merely. because of his nationally. He writes :- "I cannot pass over in silence two cases which prove how much the Montenegrine are devoted to their religion and to the Emperor. At the village of Bieloskie the parish priest brought to me a book of prayer, in order that I might tell him ! whether it was really printed at Kihff. I opened the book and began to read. All that were present in the room-rose from their sents. and when I ended they requested me to read still a few prayers.
